Do you have what it takes to be a great master pet trainer? Help your friends and other dwarves to get the most out of their pets while you keep them happy and protected. Train your pets to look cute and helpful to survive in a world full of hungry monsters and dangers. Pets is a standalone 3D sandbox roleplaying game. You can run a single instance or create your own private campaign. You don't need to own all the items in order to play. Just purchase what you need via the seamless Marketplace. Pets features: Players with online accounts can play in a private campaign. No need for friends or steam accounts, just choose your friends in your preferred game. Atmospheric day/night cycles. Particles effects Draggable blocks and items Sticky blocks (server automatically unlocks sticky blocks as the game progresses) Randomly generated caves Randomly generated land Lava monsters Randomly generated villagers Settlement editor Worldeditor Customizable map editor Achievements New recipes A unique pet UIQ: Rails [:plural] vs. [:other] From a UX standpoint I would love for people to be able to like multiple products in their cart/wishlist. I set the following to handle this: It all works as expected, except in the cart/wishlist, where there is a railscast link for the "Custom Variables". In the tutorial they have the custom variable of [:plural] and I want to know if this is the best way to handle this. The link looks like this: I just want to know if there is a major difference between these two. A: [:plural] is just a placeholder and not a variable name. You are not assigning anything to it, so it is just a placeholder and not useful. You do have a difference between :other and :plural in that the latter shows other objects, and the former

A valid assumption in Linear Algebra is that the norm of the adjoint operator is $\leq ||T||$. Is the validity of the above assumption true? Is there a counterexample where this assumption is false? A: Let x_n be a ℓ_2 sequence and $y_n=Ax_n$ for $A\in \mathcal{B}(\mathbb{R})$ with $\|A\|=1$ and $x_n\rightarrow 0$ (norm-boundedness of sequences is proven). Then $y_n\rightarrow 0$ and $(y_n)^=x_n^$ Now if the inequality $\|y_n\|\leq \|x_n\|$ is true, then $\lim_n \|y_n\|=0$. But this is not true, since $\|x_n\|=\|y_n\|$ and $\|x_n\| eq 0$ for all n. What's new in A Game Of Dwarves: Pets:

Have Their Day at E3 2014 There are so many things that could go wrong for an adorable new video game from THQ and Nexon. E3 isn't the most exciting of shows if you're looking for AAA blockbuster reveals. The centerpiece of the Electronic Entertainment Expo is a total barren wasteland of CGI trailers, pre-rendered CG footage and gameplay - we'd much rather watch the opening ceremony to the FIFA World Cup the day before. Most of the major titles are already known and there isn't much we want to know at this point. Missing titles that we know about, like Dishonored 2, Battlefield Hardline, Destiny and any and all finished console Uncharted games are clogging the top tables at both the Sony and Microsoft pavilions. Orlando Florida – June 13 -14th THQ Nordic is certainly no stranger to E3. In fact, it's a player in the AAA business. Back at Gamescom 2013, the company announced Obsidian's Star Wars: The Old Republic to a crowd of diehard fans. The studio responded to all of the good impressions in the realm, and THQ Nordic's E3 presence was seen at both E3 2013 and Gamescom 2014. ""We will focus on what both consumers and our fans expects from us,"" So, going into E3 2014, THQ Nordic brought a string of big titles under its wing. 2013 saw THQ's hit sandbox game Wasteland 2 top the PC charts, it rolled out the sequel Wasteland 3. 2014 is no different, with Dungeon Siege 3 releasing in just over a month from now. Stay tuned to DSGeeks for more news on new THQ releases heading our way. The experience with Wasteland 2 and the THQ Nordic Code Vein team was unlike a typical gaming experience. The team was quiet, eager to listen to the fans, and open to question everything. The first thing the studio showed at E3 was a candid video of the Q&A session with the fans. This interview stream can be found here: Code Vein Is our THQe Day Dragon. Its about focused decisions and being iterative about it – Pet System Ripshott Gragra – THQ Nordic CEO It's one of those passes. We call it "instinct."
