StoryOutline: "Thousand Sword Squadron is the strongest squadron in the Grand Japanese Expeditionary Army. With its large forces, this squadron has a key role in the Japanese operations overseas. Against this backdrop, there existed a young fighter pilot, a boy. He was a wild bird soaring in the skies, and was always looking for new challengers. However, he has also been tracking the movements of the enemy squadrons overseas for quite a while, and he knew the shape of the enemy. The action was set for the battles between the rival squadrons!" StoryNarrator: Keizo Asakura Kenji Mizuta Kazuo Kawai Akiko Yajima You are a member of the 2nd Squadron of the Japanese Expeditionary Army. On September 2nd, in the darkest night, you and your squadron of fighters that are mostly fighters in the air, have charged against the enemy that had attacked a large troop of the Japanese Grand Japanese Expeditionary Army, and you have chased the enemy for a whole day. Your squadron was greatly inspired by the performance of one of their superior wingmen. However, shortly after the enemy squadrons from behind, he encountered a powerful force of the enemy for a moment. Their wingmen all started to fall behind. The enemy squadron apparently had a new super-powered fleet of superior fighters. The skies were empty, and the air battle was over. "The enemy! They made their move! Get ready!" The commanding officer gave the order for the enemy force. A squad of fighters flew out of the sky. It was a devastating attack from your side! After they had gone by, the enemy appeared once more. What an incredible fleet! All you could see were dozens of fighters. On the battlefield, everyone rushed to their feet and began to yell. "The squadron mobilized!" "Everyone, fight!" "We must destroy those squadron! Fight!" You made a fierce attack to break through the enemy defences. You and your comrades fought feverishly on this battlefield. Even when you had lost your sight during an attack or a stop, you continued to fly as if you were the last man standing. However, you and your comrades had lost their position. The enemy squadron came from behind, a huge wave of fighters that broke through your squadron. S-Shit... Your squadron descended into the clouds. The only thing you

What's new in Tiger Fighter 1931 Tora!Tora!Tora! MP088:

"Saitama beats you! Death Challengers" by Tiger Fighter 1931 Tora!Tora!Tora! I'll be honest, I thought this was the worst trailer I'd ever seen. I don't mean that it was bad, or that it had weak points- it's that for a 30 second teaser trailer, it was a desperately low budget affair with everything coming from the least high production studios in the world. Seemed to be 'fake tigers' in the worst sense of the word (just smaller fakes of massive tigers), a weakly animated sequence of the Saitama I hate fighting against kids dressed up in regal dress, a very shaky cam shot montage of supposed action scenes and a song that sounds like it was ripped from Playstation 1's 2004 cloyingly lovey-dovey MTP Saga. I wasn't the only fan to express these feelings, with withings comments on the trailer showing the general feeling was that the first Saitama video game was a massive disappointment (see videos on 4chan, youtube and on my page for examples). Even Discotek has a slick review, which by the comments, is a complete HOLD on the release of this video game (I can vouch for Discotek, and you can check it out here). Because of all this negativity, I decided to check this video game out for myself- and I was pleasantly surprised. Plot? Hold it against me. Visuals? Well those are pretty well done. Music? It's all done spectacularly well. Characters? Well that's a bit of a mixed bag, but the voice actors are on point. Epic soundtrack? There's some epic music and I could list off all the tracks, but I'll let you listen to it. Conclusion? Want more? Yes, this is a 2nd chance. Of course, in Japan, because of all the negativity it failed miserably in 2006. However, with the general buzz of the MTP saga and all of the hate for it, this will be a much sought after game. This game is definitely no.1 contender for European gamers, but that's not a bad thing at all. Tiger Fighter 1931 Tora!Tora!Tora! It's amazing how well a game, based on 1992, can completely recast itself in my mind after a decade of not playing the original. Imagine how the world felt in the West in the early nineties, with the advent
