In this tutorial I'm going to show you how to make a Dynamic Web Page for a webmaster that has a new logo that he wants to show and how to add a rotating banner which can be moved up and down. The animated banner is a short introduction for new visitors to the site. I've created the banner in HTML and CSS so it's ready to be put in your web site. The codes are well commented, so it's easy to follow along. To start, add a new web page and call it Dynamic Banner. Add a new page, type 'HTML' in the name and select 'Classic HTML' from the 'Design' drop down. Do not forget to add the and tags at the very top and the end of the code If you use Dreamweaver, you'll get a warning that HTML page already has a title, but this is normal, so do not worry. Add a new style sheet and call it 'Banner', then paste the codes from below. Now open the banner.html file and resize the canvas (without moving the position) to make the banner as long as the page, so the part below the banner will be empty. The banner will now have a white background and the style will be applied. The first code is an Image map, which you can use to navigate to another page, for example. Here the tag is used to refer to another page. This code will work for all the browsers. The second code is for the animated banner. 1200) { document.write("");} --> The if-statement is used to check if the browser width is more than 1200. If the width is greater than 1200, the code adds the banner-960.
