Difference between calling function using bind() and not I am working on getting familiar with rxjs/observable, and when I subscribe to an observable i pass in a function that I call on the UI thread. If I instead of calling the function directly, use bind() to get access to the this context and pass that, does it make a difference if the function I am using is synchronous or async? new Subject().subscribe(x => x+1); //-- async version -- new Subject().subscribe(x => x+1); //-- would you expect the following to be the same? -- new Subject().subscribe(x => { this.something = x+1; this.callSomething(); }); //-- a normal function call without bind -- new Subject().subscribe(x => this.callSomething()); //-- some function -- function callSomething() { this.test2 = 2; } A: When you call method directly, you're dealing with something called evented. It means that function is executed immediately after the event has been fired. Subject emit an event when it get some new value. In your case, you're subscribing to it, so it will emit immediately. When you pass function in bind, it waits until the callSomething gets called. var subject$ = new Subject(); //-- will emit immediately: -- subject$.subscribe(x => console.log(x)); //-- will emit only when the function is called: -- subject$.subscribe(x => console.log(x)); callSomething(); //-- will emit immediately: -- subject$.subscribe(x => console.log(x)); //-- will emit only when the function is called: -- subject$.subscribe(x => console.log(x)); function callSomething() { console.log('foo'); } subject$.subscribe(x => { callSomething(); console.log('bar'); }); Ide

5656 How to get my son: I have a son who is very naughty. Please tell me how to get him full control and dont leave him mad, i will be greatly appreciated.How to stop: i want my cat to stop meowing. I havent had her since she was 3 weeks old. . Impossible to find My son got some tiny virus in his computer and we can not find the problem in his pc or in the internet.And I need an uninstaller for this virus because I'm a little bit short of space on my flash drive and I don't want to have it all on my hard drive. Need help: Need to fix startup problem. Need info on download of program. PC has been crashed many times while using file search program. Watches virus, trojan, spyware attack. Once infected, I could not open/start program. [18] Sunburn: Estoy cansado de sol, y ya me da razones la prensa Ayuda en Español:. I would like to receive information that the person I have been talking to on msn messenger, is a scammer. I have been talking to him/her on and off for the past month. Thanks :) Dislike: I dislike my friend. She knows someone who stole from a school. Their name is Analia, her friend. Analia says that she did not steal. So, I really don't believe her. So, I want to expose her because I don't know what she's telling me.Bethlehem, Pennsylvania (CNN) -- The Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. told protesters in Philadelphia that the nation's white power structure has "captured" the government for its own interests in 1964, providing King with the bedrock of an argument that he later used to galvanize the civil rights movement. Echoing similar statements made by King in Birmingham, Alabama, in 1963 -- where, famously, he was jailed and met with a cross, the Rev. C.T. Vivian, pastor of the New Song Community Church in nearby Bethlehem, told the crowd, "We're in this battle with purpose." His comment came as the crowd was being addressed by Reverends James M. Lawson and Michael H. Rolig, who asked them to take a stand against police brutality in the city. After the speech, King, who did not speak
