Working with Curves and Gradients The Curves and Gradients tools are found under the Edit menu. You can toggle between the tools and modes with the three buttons located to the left of the tools. The first button, labeled with the letter B in Figure 4-1, brings up the Curves and Gradients tools. If the Zoom buttons () are disabled, you will be working in the 2-D mode. You can switch to 3-D mode by pressing the Spacebar. FIGURE 4-1 The Curves and Gradients tools are located to the left of the Zoom buttons. Here is an overview of the functions of the tools. TIP If you want to edit a curve or gradient, it's often easier to work directly in the 3-D view of the image. If you do use the 2-D view, make sure that you set the settings for how much control you want to have, as explained here. TIP If you are going to work in 2-D mode, choose the threshold. This controls how much of the curve is visible in the image. The four buttons directly below the Curves and Gradients tools bring up the four main tools of the graphic design software: the Horizontal Type tool, the Vertical Type tool, the Rectangle tool, and the Ellipse tool. These tools can all be found in the Tools panel of the main menus. The toolbar below the main tools contains controls for the active tool. Here you can also find the Reverse command and

If you want to become a professional photographer and make money using Photoshop, then you need a proper photography guide in your hands. If you just use Photoshop to edit an image that is already saved, or create another image that will be saved, then you might wonder what it means to be a professional photographer using Photoshop Elements. In my opinion, Photoshop Elements is a software tool that is ideal for anyone who wants to edit a few photos a day. It is not a photography guide and I will use Photoshop to explain how to edit a digital photo just because a client or myself asked me to do so. Because Photoshop Elements is not a software tool for professionals, the editing process varies depending on the user's skill level. Photoshop Elements has a number of built-in functions: Free Transform to change the shape, size and position of an object on a photo. to change the shape, size and position of an object on a photo. Q: Installing a version of cURL that suits my PHP (5.3.3) So I just recently noticed that my PHP version is 5.3.3 and my cURL version is 7.31. My question is this: How do I go about installing cURL in my version of PHP? I have phpinfo() telling me that cURL is installed in the right path, but I am unsure as to how I would go about enabling the cURL functions in the php.ini file. Thank you for your help in advance! A: If this is simply the version mismatch you're seeing (probably cURL and PHP have been installed together on your system) you're in luck: `Shell -i | grep -i "curl"` will show the version of cURL your PHP is using. If you're in a situation where you've got both versions of cURL and PHP installed you'll need to re-compile PHP to have it use cURL 7. If this is something you'd like to do, the procedure is fairly simple, and you can do it through your current user's online PHP "Build" system. You can install cURL in any of your PHP installations from this same directory. Q: Macbook Pro 2013 Sleep mode unable to start after wake up. How to fix? I have a 2011 Macbook Pro and just purchased a new 2013 model. In the new one everything works fine, except Sleep mode. When I put the Macbook to sleep, the only thing that happens is the display turns off and when I come back from sleep, my bluetooth keyboard still works, but the touchpad is not responding at all. When I take the Macbook off the battery, and leave it idle for a while, the touchpad starts working again. I already tried to toggle the power (no matter if it was charge or battery) multiple times, while the Macbook was in sleep mode, but the power still doesn't turn back on to. The only solution now is to turn the Macbook off. I always power off the Macbook by pressing the power button. It turns off for a long time before turning back on. A: Just for anyone who was looking for a solution: I found this by chance as I was still searching for a solution to this problem. Basically you boot into single

Q: jQuery fadeOut and fadeIn not working I have a display that I want to fade out and fade in when a user hovers over a specific area. I've used jQuery before, but never with fadeIn and fadeOut and I'm having a hard time getting anything to happen. Here's my html: `Sample heading This is a paragraph of sample text.` jQuery: `$(".disp_main").hover(function() { $(this).fadeOut(1000); }, function() { $(this).fadeIn(1000); });` Thanks in advance. A: .hover() works for elements that support an event called "hover", such as anchors () and links (). You cannot use it to trigger animations on elements without a user-interactive function, such as images (). Use .mouseover() instead.
