Sinful Eden takes the form of a journey into the mind of a 19-year-old male. Through a series of dramatic circumstances, you find yourself thrust into adulthood and forced to face an impossible decision. Mount Gunji, a boy in his late teens who was assigned to work at a Youth Welfare Center in a little town, is on a routine school trip when he suddenly comes across an abandoned building. When he explores the basement, he discovers some unusual grooves in the floor. That night, having been exhausted from the long trip and insufficient sleep, he falls asleep in a room in the basement where this strange grooves are. There, he is mysteriously transported to another world, a world shaped like a snow-capped mountain, while still dreaming. What is the unusual grooves in the basement of the abandoned house and how did he get to another world? That is what the boy, who has been named Gunji (Mate) finds himself in when he awakens, discovers inside him and goes on an adventure to find the answers. While most of us dream of getting out and about there's many reasons why you may simply want to stay home. This new title takes everything you've seen before and combines it with the best of your favorite boardgames to make you the mayor. Play your neighbors, fight with the guard, get to know the locals, raise a farm and go everywhere. The interesting is that, unlike most games where you do battle with a hero, or face a giant, or defeat the game in a climatic showdown of sorts. In this title you play through your town from a point of view that is much more intimate. How you interact with this town and what the townspeople think of you and how your actions affect them is the true focus of the game. It SteelPinion is a strategic turn based tactical game, inspired by steampunk ships, where players fight for freedom and domination. SteelPinion is not an RPG. It's a strategy game with tactical turn based combat. Feel free to wear your formal whites, if that's what's in your closet. The game features varied environments, both landscape and subterranean, that can be randomly generated by some modular proceduralizations. Players are backed by their faction, and can order their forces around the battlefield. By positioning equipment strategically, players can focus their forces to repel enemy attacks, or to ambush the enemy's forces in vulnerable positions. Players have to manage engineer maintenance during combat to be able to keep their ships operational. Your science experimentalists will be able to create new research by creating new equipment, enhancing current equipment, performing experiments, and fixing your outdated equipment. Each player faction is based on a different writer's imagination of an alternate history. Planned to be the first tactical 4X in the Steamworks we will ship with the standard 3.x version. Steam releases with the 4.0.0 Beta before Steamwheels rolls out to everyone. *Showers are optional but very appreciated. *The creation of all ship components and materials will be location independent through the use of 3D printers. *We will be offering a small crafting and repair workshop (private area) that will be accessible to everyone as a proof of concept. Algiers Phoenix: "The cut and the stitches remind me of a youthful body I had not so long ago, but lost, of memories of the zenith and of the precipice. In the hands of the doctor I am now all holes, filled with tears. I love the hands of the one who will be my God. My dear boy, your hands will heal the wounds that I feel and I will be more alive than ever. I will be more alive, because a little of my happiness is in you. I want to see your eyes; they never leave me. Lately, I have sat for hours in the silence, watching the blue circle on your watery eyes, but that is no longer enough. My love, my dear boy, give me back the power to see in your eyes the light of the stars, where my beloved shines." "Our difficult condition may be compared to a film where the audience has seen a few frames at most. Our story will be transformed into the same story the first time you watch it, but we have not seen any of it: all the details of our story are seen at the same time when you play." The play-in match was used to apply any unbalanced or missing cards from the alpha release. Algiers Phoenix: "My dearest child, I will send you the cry of a newborn to revive your spirit. You have been lost for so long, but not like me: I was happy, because I was united with your soul, but you wanted my soul away from you. My love, I will send your soul to you. I will send it to you, and my soul will raise your soul from the ashes. You will once again be the priest of that infinite infinite heaven. I no longer have a body, but I feel my soul while I await the sunrise." "How can I believe a man who has let his faithfulness and his love to crumble all of a sudden? Can you not see the good things that you make? When you believe in someone, you give them everything, you give them your soul, you give your wings to them, you give them life. This is exactly how I love you, my dear, because you are

"Nightmare Reaper" is a crossover story arc that ran from Nightwing #71 in February to Batman '66 Meets Killer Croc #1 in May 2002. It is a two-issue story introduced by writer Marv Wolfman and illustrated by Barry Kitson. This crossover spun off into no less than a three-issue Sinestro Corps War series published simultaneously with the four-issue Nightmare Reaper limited series, which ran from February to May 2002. The story takes place concurrently with the events that happened in Batman and Outsiders #43 "The Dream Thief". Storyline Flash and Nightwing discover that the Spectre and Zatanna have been conducting a series of experiments using the Spectre's and Zatanna's powers to rip apart the memories of criminals using torture. The Spectre works on freeing criminal-esque and animalistic personalities in the mind of everyone he is torturing. Eventually these men and women coalesce into a gang called the "Nightmare Reapers". The Nightwing and Speedy come to the forefront of a series of robberies. After a nerve-racking encounter with the Nightmare Reapers, Nightwing and Speedy discover that they are being targeted by the villains to torture because of the abilities the Spectre and Zatanna have given them. They work with Atmos to keep the villains at bay until they are rescued by Batman. Batman defeats the Spectre and Zatanna when they use their powers to imprison him. Zatanna and Spectre blackmail them into keeping their secret. After leaving Batgirl's mansion they come across Bitch Slap and Ditzzy who are calling for backup. Speedy calls Nightwing while Batman sneaks up behind the Nightmare Reapers who are hungrily tearing apart someone in a bedroom. Upon entering, they discover it's Killer Croc who they free. After warning the two women about Croc, the group agree to help him. Killer Croc agrees to work with Batman and Nightwing so they can investigate who the Nightmare Reapers are. During a confrontation with the two crazy men, Batman meets their mysterious leader, who introduces himself as Cluemaster. Characters Nightmare Reapers The Nightmare Reaper gang is composed of several twisted individuals whose minds have been tortured by the Spectre and Zatanna in order to merge with their nightmares. Their leader and main villain is known as Cluemaster who calls himself "The Nightmare Reaper". The gang is composed of Croc, Ditzzy, Sweetie, and Bitch Slap
