I am developing a web app using Aptana Studio 3 and using the Tomcat plugin I have configured it to use the [project's] /src/main/webapp as a context root and mapped it to the CSS folder as a webapp subfolder. But when I try to open that CSS file using either Aptana's project explorer or a browser I always get a 404 not found error. The file is also not visible when using ftp. The file in question is included in the application using a resource bundle. Does anybody know if I can make the Aptana plugin find this file? A: Since the file is not being published you'll need to configure the CSS folder as an embedded CSS folder in order to make the CSS file accessible to a webapp. 5:15 PM: Klay Thompson is out for Game 4. Steph Curry has a fractured right hand, plus he had a left knee contusion after Game 3. Curry's X-rays came back negative, but he'll miss Game 4 with a right ankle injury, too. 1:15 PM: Warriors guard Shaun Livingston should be able to return for Game 4 and even play a full 48 minutes if he misses any time at all, Chris Haynes of CSNBayArea.com reports. In any case, he is expected to be back on Sunday. 12:55 PM: Due to his arm injury, Warriors
