What's new:

Farm for the FutureThe Shifter's Words Life on the farm is evolving from sustainable, healthful, and family-centered to rural recovery, with the promise and potential for further independent living. Mother Nature, Mother Earth, Mother Nature—yes, there's so much more to this sacred Earth than you could ever imagine. It is truly the birthplace of life on this planet, the bees, the grass, the trees—the entire natural world. And yet due to our conscious or ignorant misuse of this amazing gift, we find ourselves at a great threshold, a watershed moment in our planet's history—threshold to the new era, the polar shift it's time for this planet and all of life on it to embark upon. We long for a world where, for the first time in human history, there's no future. No, not just no future—a future where the forests will no longer hold back the clouds and no longer harbour our homes and our lives. There's no future for people who grow asparagus ten feet deep for no one to gather, for no one to eat and for people to buy in today's dollars, for the water we see and the air we breathe to be the polluted harvest of a toxic future. There's no future for the oceans to replenish our rain and for the forests and grasses to offer up their bodies to rest and heal so that we may walk and breathe on the surface of this sphere. But I believe that the future is possible and will be available here on the farm, for we are the custodians of the living pulse of the Earth's heart. I believe that despite the climate breakdown and the one billion species on extinction record, in our time and place, with our gifts, we can build the healing world of the future—a world that doesn't destroy the planet on which we live, doesn't pollute the air, the water, and the food we eat, and doesn't choke the planet's life force with war, disease and despair. In spite of so many dark prophecies, I believe the future will be available in this place, and so today I'm writing to offer you the future we can build together, to announce the promise of a deeper kind of living, one that's grounded in the biodiversity of life, sustained by the element of magic that permeates life and, most importantly, good old-fashioned ordinary, every day living. Whether you're a farmer, a gardener, a

Rock 'n' Roll (Will Take You to the Mountain) is the second track from the new Skrillex LP 'Recreate: The Best of Skrillex Vol. 1'. The track 'Rock 'n' Roll (Will Take You to the Mountain)' is taken directly from Skrillex's official web site and follows 'Scary Monsters and Nice Sprites', which dominated the track lists on the summer of 2013. In 'Rock 'n' Roll (Will Take You to the Mountain)' we have: that comparison `{{}}` You can use the `` command to compare text with DyanmicText `{{}}` Checked Using this command, you can display a string of text ```` (#) ```` You can use the ``#`` command to replace DyanmicText No html Use this command to display plain text `{{}}` Plain html Use this command to display plain text with some html tags inside it `{{}}` Multiple lines Use this command to display text on multiple lines ```` (#What are you watching?) ```` Using this command, you can disable the display of DyanmicText Read-only ```` (#no) ```` This command displays text in read-only mode, which prevents the addition of text or changing text. `{{}}` Rows of shops lined the street that stretched for miles toward the heart of Stalingrad, but the explosion of dust and smoke was more than an inconvenience. It meant that the German 6th Army commander, Field Marshal Erich von Manstein, had arrived. As Russian forces retreated into the city, his men believed they could end their deep jaunts into the Russian rear with a decisive victory. A symbolic capture of the Stalingrad City Square, Hitler's personal headquarters, would be an ex
